Time No More, A True Story, To be Made into a Movie

Diana Sullivan is an author, speaker, and a development consultant with ten years' experience in marketing shopping centers and over 30 years as a real estate broker and development consultant. A successful entrepreneur, Sullivan developed a $7.2-million residential housing project and community starting from nothing. During her inspirational journey of developing her first community project, Sullivan reveals how holding on to a vision can—and did—create the impossible.

During a 21-day retreat to India to study in a monastic community within the ancient Vedic yogi tradition, she suffered a major fall and rushed to the emergency room. With the possibility of real injury, not returning home, or returning on crutches and a bandaged head, she started reflecting on how no injury had happened.

Then a series of events were even more miraculous, and she began to see the ancient secrets reveal humanity has the capacity to live a more powerful life than we have known.

The trip inspired her to write Vision Is the Way: Love Is the Destination, an international best-selling book. The book outlines visionary skills of how reality is created in our lives and how vision initiates new beginnings. With stories about life, family, real estate, and references to new scientific discoveries in consciousness, the lessons in this book lead readers through new strategies for living a richer, fuller life during a time when a new normal is being built.

But then after a massive heart attack she was at the end with nowhere to turn but to the ancient secrets. There she was taken to other dimensions for a discovery of how to survive. One of the many discoveries led to the realization of needing to speak up.

These amazing and eye-opening experiences led to starting another book, "Time No More" on the way to be published later this year and a movie script to tell the story.

With the same determination and vision and a little help from her community Diana will see her story told across the world.
